London, April 24 .- The Russian and Hungarian delegations at Genos are negotiating a separate treaty which has been referred to Budapest for final approval, according to the Genoa correspondent of the Central News. The two powers, it is said, agree to stand together against Rumania and the little entente. Premier Bethlen took a draft of the treaty to Budapest Saturday, the correspondent learned unofficially. It is regarded as creating a new bloc isolating Poland and the little entente from her immediate neighbors. "How do you like Atlanta?" The question is as old as interviews. It is older than Atlanta, for there vere interviews when Atlanta was Marthasville.

It is an accepted rite, just like syrup on batter cakes and mustard on frankfurters. But it doesn't go during opera

The reasons are simple. In the first place, not many of the opera artists would know what the interviewer was talking about. In the second place, their answer is too obvious.

Like Going to Picnic. School boys and girls on their way to a picnic haven't anything on opera artists on the way to Atlanta. And they don't mind showing just how much they like the trip. Under normal conditions opera artists do not arise to sing matin songs with the birds in the tree tops. Under normal conditions, they would be as peevish as trapped wildcats if they were forced to abandon downy rouches along about 6 o'clock in the morning, when not even the common masses of the common people have started to work.

But they were all up Monday morn ing at 6 o'clock and they were all smiling-and they were smiling because they were in Atlanta. Atlanta has become an institution in their lives just as they have become an institution in the life of Atlanta. They never seem to tire of any of the features of their visit. Practically all of the artists have personal friends here, too-more peronal friends, perhaps, than anywhere else in America, for only in Atlanta do they join whole-heartedly in the social activities of an opera season.

That it is the purpose of the postoffice department to give the best service possible, especially through the effort that will be directed during the week to attain this end, was emphasized by Mr. Rogers Monday. Several ways of improving the postal service were pointed out by Mr. Rog-

There has been no consideration whatever given to the curtailment of the passenger service in any respect.

Bar-Le-Duc, France, April 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—France will, in treaty," said M Poincare, "and that the treaty of Versailles is executed if the Germans detault in their reparations payments, Premier Poincare intimated in a speech before the general council of the department of the Meuse

"That accord brings out into the full light the sympathies which had developed in the darkness between the bolsheviki and the Germans. How many persons wrested from their con fidence of yesterday will not now ad mit that the cabinet was right in de siring to insist for the moment on eighteen months' military service?" M. Poincare referred to the discov

At any rate added M. Poincara

At any rate, added M. Poincare, the coming together of Germany and the soviets was a great menace to Poland and indirect menace to

Hope for European Peace Disposed of by Poincare

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.

Such hope of a general European apweek's events at Genon should be disposed of by the speech of Poincare, the French prime minister, at Bar-Led-Duc. This utterance does two significant things: First, it serves notice that France will withdraw from the Genoa conference if the questions of reparations or of armaments are raised; second, it indicates that France plans to act in-dependently in the matter of reparations, if Germany does not comply with the terms fixed by the repara-

Bear in mind that Germany has already indicated her purpose not to comply, and the whole truth is plain. In other words, Poincare, driven by conditions within the French parlia-ment, which are unmistakable, driven by the popular outery which has been provoked by the publication of the Russo-German treaty at Genoa last week, has announced that France means to use force to compel Ger-many to meet her obligations in the matter of reparations and is prepared to March alone, if her former allies will not support her.

Shatters Illusion. With this utterance the illusion of nents should come up at Genoa, but, as everyone knows, these questions, and particularly reparations, constitute the chief obstacle to Europen

o-operation. Conceivably, Genoa might still have accomplished something in the way of adjustment with Russia, a limited recognition of the soviet government and thus the reinclusion of Russia in the European system, if the Russo-German treaty had not been flung in the face of the conference in the openthe face of the conference in the opening days. But with the appearance of this treaty the whole outlook of Genoa changed. The treaty was, as I have pointed out before, a direct challenge to France and to the states of the little entente, as well as a deadly menace to Poland.

Poincaire's speech has other unmis takable implication. Yesterday Lloyd George deliberately censured French policy as revealed at Genoa. In no policy as revealed at Genoa. In no uncertain terms Poincare has answered that challenge and met that criticism by what must be accepted as a frank statement that France does not mean to yield either to England or to an association of nations at Genoa, which is under British direction has already declared that she would not accept.

Now the test of this must come on May 31, when the reparations issue comes up for new discussion. In all human probability, the Genoa conference will long before that date have adjourned. Moreover, in accordance with the agreement of Boulogne, the reparations question cannot be diswith the agreement of Boulogne, the rejarations question cannot be discussed at Genoa at all. Therefore, what happens at Genoa becomes unimportant by contrast with what may and probably will happen on May 31.

If Lloyd George attempts to bring up reparations at Genoa, Poincare will recall the French representatives. But if the question is not brought up and settled, then there will always be on the horizon the prospect of a real European crisis of almost unlimited magnitude a few weeks hence. No one will attempt to prophesy what will now happen. But it is clear that the Poincare speech was dictated by French sentiments and even more by the state of mind in the French parliament, where resentment over Genoa

With this general vindication of their position, the French, it was said officially, now feel that there are but wo dominating questions before the success with a house which has been very cold to him of late. Faith Destroyed. In any event, affairs would seem t be sure to move very rapidly at Genon now. The limit of possible achieve-ment has been enormously reduced. The extent of the disaster incident to the publication of the Russo-German treaty is now unmistakable. This dis aster was primarily revealed in France where the last semblance of French faith in any peaceful adjustment with Germany was destroyed. You have to appreciate how gen eral and how intense is the French belief that Germany is preparing a new attack, to understand the im-pression which would follow the announcement of a Russo-German al-liance. Moreover the announcement from London that the Russians and Germans are negotiating a new treaty Genoa, and it never was more than an illusion, of a reintegration of Europe disappears. Before the conference, at the Boulogne meeting with Lloyd George, Poincaire stipulated that neither reparations nor armapeuts should some unput Genoa but the separated—not united. Would Blame France.

So far as Genoa is concerned, all that would seem to remain is the problem of how George will extract from the situation the maximum of personal political advantage and fix upon France the burden of responsibility for the failure of the plan to reorganize Europe. Songs of Wondrous Beauty.

"Ernani" is simply a succession of songs of wondrous beauty, with the orchestra supporting the voices rather than the orchestra doing the work with the voices chiming in with a bark or a yell every now and then. It is distinctly and emphatically antihighbrow. When Martinelli sang a tenor solo, he sang it from the front of the middle of the stage, so that everybody heard his every note—and there wasn't one that should have been missed. When he and Miss Ponselle and Danise sang a trio or when the great Jose Mardones was added and they became a quartet, they sang straight to the audience, and after all the people in the audience are the ones to be pleased or displeased.

Never has an Atlanta audience been ones to be pleased or displeased.

Never has an Atlanta audience been so swayed by the work of a male chorus. The chorus began doing things in Atto Prima, as we say in our best limpid Italian, and its harmonics were so melodious, inspiring, enlivening, and all the other adjectives in the bright lexicon of operatics, that it was actually missed while the principals held the stage all to themselves.

Honors of the evening were exactly fivefold. Martinelli was off in the lead, then Ponselle took command. Mardones came up with a rush, and then Danise appeared in front until the arrival of the ballet in the last act.

Ballet Is Colorful.

The ballet, featuring Florence Rudolph was exquisietly dainty and overwhelmingly colorful. The applause that greeted it was tremendous. Had it been in vaudeville, the proper remark would be "it stopped the show."

In Debate, the Senator Charges Bill Will "Increase Price of Everything the People Buy."

Washington, April 24.—There was an old-fashioned tariff debate today in the senate. It marked the real beginthe senate. It marked the real beginning of the weeks, and perhaps months, of battling over the administration measure which the finance committee reported two weeks ago. The discussion was opened by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, with a delailed explanation of the elastic tariff proposals written into the bill at the suggestion of President Harding and it included an attack on those proposals by Senator Janes, democrat, New Mexico, and the opening of a general

Obaracterizing the measure as "more iniquitous" than the Payne-Aldrich and Dingley measures, Senator King charged that it was a bill "to increase the price of everything the people buy" and was framed in the interest of the "dye trust, the steel trust, the chemical trust, the woolen mill trust, some of the cotton manufacturing trusts and the multitude of great organizations that in the past have preyed upon the people and that in the future will continue their policy of exploitation."

Criticises McCumber. Senator King declared that the ad lress of Chairman McCumber, of the finance committee, in calling up the measure last week was "an appeal to the predatory interests of the United States to be merciful to the poor con-sumer," and said that when the na-

In the course of his remarks, Senator King took a fling at the agricultural-tariff bloc, the manufacturers' bloc and what he described as other blocs and groups. He declared that the death knell of political parties was sounded when there was a division into "farmers' groups, workmen's groups and manufacturers' groups. Reading from an announcement of the Southern Tariff association that it had laid its appeal for higher rates than contained in the senate bill before the "tariff bloc," Senator King demanded to know what had become of the "able senators who constitute the finance committee and who are supposed to write tariff bills."

"The tariff bloc is supreme," he added, "and I suppose the manufacturers' bloc and the tariff bloc squeezed the finance committee as a strong man squeezes clay in his hands, or sought to do so."

As to the elastic tariff provisions, Senator King said they would operate to make the tariff commission "a football of the predatory interests;" would make for instability and would result in the permanent presence in Washington of a tariff lobby which would dangle before senators and representatives all "the spectres the brains of the interests could conjure up."

Charges Hypocrisy. Germany and the threat of German invasion has been the spectre held up in the committee room when the bill was drawn, he continued, adding that there never was "a more hypocritical demand for legislation" than that for demand for legislation than that for protection against a nation that was bankrupt; unable to meet its reparations and saddled with taxes such as no other nation had ever known.

Living Cost Now Is 57.7 Per Cent Above 1914 Cost

Baltimore, April 24.—The cost of living is now 54.7 per cent higher than it was in July of 1914, according Wallace's estimate, made before the convention of the National League of Women Voters Monday night, was based on the budget of the average family for all necessaries. "If we compare the costs of necessary commodities in July, 1914, with the costs in March, 1922, we find they have increased about 54.7 per cent," said Wallace. "Food, the largest item in the family budget, costs 42 per cent more than in 1914; shelter about 65 per cent more; clothing 54 per cent; fuel and light 77 per cent; sundries 74 per cent."

Increased Incomes.
Wallace said that in considering the increases, and demanding reductions, allowances also should be made for increased incomes.

"The family whose income is 54.7 per cent greater now than in 1914 is neither better nor worse off than in 1914," he said.

"Speaking generally, the people who are under the greatest disadvantage because of the increase of the cost of living are the preachers, teachers, untrained and unorganized laborers, and farmers. The incomes of these groups are lower, compared with the cost of living than before the war. cost of living than before the war. Farmers, Wallace said, are worst hit by the existing conditions.

"The farmer is worse off relatively than the wage earner," because his income is down to pre-war levels, while the cost of the things he must buy is 50 per cent or more above pre-war. 50 per cent or more above pre-war costs," he said.

veterans of years of following the gold lure in Alaska, are going out every day, followed by parties of clerks, office men and others with no experience in the hard life on the trail of the shining dust.

Whether the new rush will equal that of 1897-98, which lured thousands to the frozen north, is yet to be determined, but the influx of seekers after sudden wealth already is big enough to make it impossible to buy a gold pan here. Picks and other mining equipment have also been sold out by local hardware stores and the demand for heavy boots, overalls,

This rush is different however, from the famous Klondike rush. Instead of the thousands of miles of unbroken trail, prospectors can go to Williams lake, within 70 miles of the new fields, by railroad. From Williams lake to Cedar creek is only 60 miles, and 40 miles further on is Whitewater, and good roads lead to these places from the end of the railroad. So the miners are going to the new fields in automobiles—a rush "de luxe"—and, judging from the specimens brought to assay offices here, with a better chance of striking pay dirt than there was in the old days on the Yukon.

Harry has been working here as a printer's devil. He received a letter from his mother from Greenwood, S. C., stating that they had inherited the $2,000,000 estate of her first husband. They had won out in court over relatives who tried to break the will, the letter stated. The estate consists, according to the letter, of $725,000 in cash, $275,000 in bonds and stocks and the balance in real estate.

"The agricultural industry of the nation requires a short-term system of finance covering loans from six months to three years and to be totally divorced from the operations of the federal reserve banking system of commercial loans. Such a system has been in operation for many years in all the leading agricultural countries of the world except in the United States. Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, has recently introduced a bill in the senate entitled the Agricultural Credits Act of 1922, which is broad and comprehensive. The first "yardstick" of bond papers The right paper for every need

THE paper needs of the average business are so complicated, the papers on the market today are themselves so numerous; that the average buyer is bewildered. In almost every business, wrong papers are being used for many important require--in some cases at a cost of thousands of dollars a year.

As a solution of this problem, the American Writing Paper Company has worked out nine fundamental grades of bond papers. representing the nine major quality and price levels—each on a mass production basis. These nine are the Eagle-A Specification Bonds.

The chart below shows which of these papers should be used for the more important business uses. Your Printer, Lithographer, Stationer or Engraver will quote you the prices and show you samples of the nine. Each is made in a standard range of

Why Be "Skinny"

When It's So EASY to Increase Your Weight This New Way

New Scientific Process Embodied in IRONIZED YEAST Enables Many Thin, Nervous, Run-down Folks to Gain 5 to 9 Pounds on First Package

No matter how thin you may be—no matter how long you have been trying to put on weight—no matter how many different preparations you may have tried without results-you owe it to yourself to learn of the real benefits that IRONIZED YEAST holds for you. For thin folks to gain five to nine pounds on the very first package is not at all unusual. Pimples and other humiliating skin eruptions usually completely disappear within 14 days. And as for creating new energy, seeming miracles are reported by people who were once nervous, weak and rundown. And all because IRONIZED YEAST embodies an amazing process—a process which enables yeast to bring its wonderful results often in just half the usual time!

What Is The Secret?

While science admits that yeast alone is good, experiments prove that it is not enough, in itself, to bring 100% results. For although yeast contains certain mysterious elements which have a wonderful effect on our health, it needs some other agent in order to quickly convert these vital elements into rosy cheeks, firm flesh and rugged strength.

Iron, Science tells us, is of high value in changing the food we est into living cells and tissue. So working on this problem, our chemists finally discovered the amazing process of ironization. It is this process which enables you to derive from yeast ALL of the splendid benefits it holds for you.

Superior — Therefore Imitated

You are cautioned against accepting cheap inferior imitations of IRONIZED YBAST, which in most cases are merely mixtures of ordinary yeast and iron. The re-markable process of ironisation is embodied only in IRONIZED YEAST, theone scientifically correct yeast treatment. Always insist upon the genuine IRONIZED YEAST. It is the only way you can be sure of getting the best.

"Gains 10 Pounds" "I have taken only 1½ packages of IRONIZED YEAST, yet have gained 10 pounds in 15 days."—Rev. L. W. V.

"Gains 6 Pounds" "The improvement in me since tak-ing IRONIZED YEAST is just wonder-ful. Now I eat heartly, never have that tired-out feeling, and I have gained six pounds."—Mr. E. B. C.

"Gains 8 Pounds" "After one box of IRONIZED YEAST I have gained 8 pounds, my skin is clear, I now sleep soundly every

"Gains 10 Pounds" "I think IRONIZED YEAST is a wonderful fiesh-builder and fine for the complexion. I have gained 10 pounds after 1½ packages."

SERVING HUMANITY. That the Salvation Army is an organization whose activities are not confined to ministering to the spiritual welfare of humanity or to elieving physical distress, as many may suppose, was illustrated a few days ago by its tender of help to prevent property loss and human suffering from flood disaster along the Mississippi river.

Press dispatches telling of the apparent imminence of a break in the levee at Tunica, Miss .- as a result of which hundreds of families in the threatened district had abandoned their homes and were fleeing to the hills for safety-carried the significant announcement that following a statement by William D. Head, president of the sippi river levee district, that the danger was acute, "the Salvation dat you is so raggedy you is shame ter be seen whar folks is hittin' hard licks fer a livin'!" Army headquarters at Memphis offered free board and transportation fered free board and transportation at all de time ef you wouldn't make to men who would go to Tunica to him feel like you wuz crowded fer help in the work of reinforcing the levee to prevent its giving way."

Almost invariably in case of an unusual disaster involving human distress the Salvation Army is on the job at once, rescuing the survivors, providing food, clothing and shelter for the sufferers and rendering first-aid to the injured. It vies with the enterprising and always-dependable Red Cross society in such service to humanity, these verses were recalledand the value of its ministrations in emergencies of that character

New York, April 24.—There is a thrill even for those left behind in watching an ocean liner shove off. It was one of the fastest ships sailing —piled high with gayly criss-crossed luggage. Masses of people strolling along the decks and faces glistening at the rails.

The hardened voyagers arrive long beft sailing time and retire to their state-rooms. No excitement for them. Taxis and limousines roll up to the pier to unload passengers. The army of news and cinema photographers and ship news scribes surround each arrival.

If a passenger is considered unim—

Weare land gnarled, going back to peace and plenty after years of drudge verywhere. Suddenly the mysterious clang of ship-bells, rippling from above down to the iron depths. A handwave from the captain, up goes the ladder and the vessel careens out into the blue haze, its portholes affurter with waving hands.

A loyal Airedale, tugging furious-by at his leash, howls the kowl of the greviously stricken. His beloved master is on board. A white-faced crowd of three, eyes a bit blood-shotted, race through the crowds. Five minutes too late. They will not celebrate again the night before sailing.

ship news scribes surround each arrival.

If a passenger is considered unimportant they permit him to pass—otherwise he must run the clicking camera gauntlet. In the crowds are a few faces aglitter with hawk-like eyes. Their nerves are taut. If recognized they will be turned back. Card sharpers. Despite precaution, every liner has them.

A burst of cheers. Jack Dempsey bashfully takes the spotlight. He has a winning schoolboy naivette. Actresses seeking a little free puff kiss him for the benefit of the photographers. Two sandy-haired men in tweeds from Scotland yard. A pale-faced man handcuffed to them.

His wife carefully avoids saying whether he has tuberculosis. That is one of the curious psychological fea-tures of lung tuberculosis and of cancer. The patients and their immediate relatives are reluctant to admit that they know what is the matter; that they know what is the matter; they eagerly grasp any assurance or suggestion which may be offered, no matter by what incompetent intruder, that the trouble isn't what they know it is. With cancer, provided it is not amenable to radium, surgery, or X-ray treatment, this is of no consequence. With tuberculosis it is often a matter of life and death for the a matter of life and death, for the procrastination, neglect or maltreat-ment encouraged by this peculiar ne-gation of disease too often spells tragedy for the m'sguided victim. Cancer is the most disheartening disease with which the physician has to cope. Tuberculosis is the most hopeful, the most curable, of all sehopeful, the most curable, of all se-rious diseases. But, alas! the patient himself seems bent on opposing and retarding his own cure. Or rath-er, he prefers to gamble his health and life upon some treatment, any treatment, that happens to be present-ed with sufficient force and plausi-bility to appeal to his rather abnormal ination. Few victims of tubercu-have not indulged at least temporarily in some such reckless gam-bling, to the detriment of their pros-

I would seem easy for two groups holding such views to get together. It would appear to an outsider rather easy for the A. A. U. to join a federation and to aid in such a work.

But unfortunately the leaders of the A. A. U. or the officials have assumed a queer attitude which is brief. sumed a queer attitude which is briefly that any one who is not with them cial.)—If you have been among those is against them.

I wish most sincerely that the discordant elements in amateur athletics in the United States could get together and work out some comprehensible. gether and work out some comprehensive program of control. The A. A. U. hasn't the machinery of the men whip, has been disappointing considering to safeguard amateurism. Even its power to punish infractions of the rules is not always good, for the simple reason that it is resented.

If the present plan of a federation of the present plan of a federation is the present plan of a feder of all the amateur sport controlling bodies of the country is carried out and perfected, the A. A. U. should be

AMATEURISM.

I can take at least four of the big athletic clubs of the country and prove to the satisfaction of their own heads or any other fair-minded person that, instead of encourageing amateurism, it is discouraging it.

From the standpoint of the theory of the thing, the A. A. U. is a great force for purity in athletics. In the working out of the thing, it is perhaps the worst influence in all amateurism. The first reason is that the great majority of the active athletes are resentful and angry toward the A. A. U. In the second place, by its own attitude of encouraging champions and thousing the hig athletic clubs it discouraging the highest the second place and the second place in the second pla Sentful and angry toward the A. A. U. In the second place, by its own attitude of encouraging champions and boosting the big athletic clubs, it discourages the small clubs, puts the minimum of value upon the great athlete if he belongs to a small club and the maximum of advantage if he consents to register as a member of some of the larger organizations. In this manner the A. A. U. control has centralized the champions and the record-breakers in the large clubs—especially the New York Athletic club, which, having assumed the power of organizing the A. A. U. in the first place (taking this power from Spalding, who first organized the amateurs in order to sell books and sporting goods), considers itself the central power of amateur sports.

The A. A. U., however, has consistently refused to enter into any arrangement unless it can dominate and control everything, which makes any such arrangement difficult. It is to be hoped that in time the differences will be adjusted and each body will assume its proper place in organization.

There is another element in the thing, and that is politics. Since 1894 or thereabouts politics has more

SEEKING WILLS FOR BATTLE WITH JACK

New York, April 24.—The possibility of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, negro heavyweight contender, meeting in a championship contest in London this summer loomed today on the strength of a cablegram from George McDonald, English promoter, according to Dia Dollings, English fight manager, now in New York. He received the following message last night from McDonald:

"Can you get Wills to come to London to box Dempsey?"

Wills, when informed of the cablegram, announced he would be "ready to depart on the first boat," but his manager offered no comment except

The long-delayed fight against the Amateur Athletic Union appears to be on in earnest. This time, evidently, the opponents of the A. A. U. are united and determined to break the monarchical control of amateur sport by the A. A. U., which has existed ever since amateur athletics became a vital part of American life.

It seems to me quite unfortunate that the big men of the A. A. U. refuse to join in the movement for better and broader physical education of the youth of the nation.

Their assistance is needed. That they should hold aloof from a movement which has the highest and best interests of the youth of the country at heart is not right.

The world champion New York Giants lead the National with eight men hitting over the .300 mark, while the team has the tidy average of .357 for the first week. A notabl feature is the position attained by the young blood in the league. Friberg and Kelleher, Chicago; Mokan and Rohwar, Pittsburg; Henline and Walker, Philadelphia; Toporcer, St. Louis, and Shinners, of New York, are all crashing the ball for figures labove .300.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

The surprise in the American asso-ciation race during the first week was the inability of the Kansas City swatsmiths to find the ball with any degree of regularity, the Blues find-ing themselves in next to last place with a team average of .232. De-gamblers would change their proverbial plaids for golfers and beset a links during a national championship, but at the fourth hole the referee, James Standish, Jr., came to me and suggested that we wipe the mud from my ball on the greens, as that had been allowed, adding: 'Of course, we will clean Guilford's ball,

THE ARMY LOSES.

The wonder was advised me that they had succeeded by their adroit maneuvers. Inability of the Crackers to take alvantage of the Mobile hurler's wildness was the big contributing factor in the defeat of the homelings. Runners were on the paths several times, with-in striking distance of the home sta-tion on some occasions, but Fuhr In-variably settled and the threat passed

He was nicked for but four bingles, the Crackers, excepting Sammy Mayer, showing a tendency to let Mr. Fuhr throw them by, and offering little resistance to his effort to win another ball game in this champiouship sprint. Sammy thrives on southpawhowever, and declined to lower his batting average, connecting with a couple of safe thumps, and coming dangerously near another clout. The oher hits for Atlanta were obtained by Bill Holden and Joe Guyon.

Suggs succeeded nicely in stopping one member of Mobile's 'murderers' row,' but the others fell to his slants with much eclat. D. These barters were responsible for eight of the nine hits secured by the Bruins, Fuhr getting a long single to left for the other. He was nicked for but four bingles.

AT START.

Mobile's habit of scoring when is appeared the fire was just about out, asserted itself in the opening frame. Hometown bugs, anxious over the was Suggs would start, had begun to freathe easier, as Boll and D. Williams had both been retired, but Mulvey started trouble by singling to center. Rhino Williams followed with a long clout to left that netted two bags and drove Mulvey to third. Huling then singled to right, and both scored. Baker hit to Ritter and when the second baseman fumbled, Atlanta second baseman fumbled, Huhn registered, Niehoff advancing. When Fuhr struck out the skies clear-ed for Suggs, but a nicely executed double steal sent the Bear pilot over for the fourth tally, Baker going to second. The Crackers had a chance to score in the first, but Holden was retired on a grounder for the last out. A base on balls gave the locals another opportunity in the third, but Mayer struck out and Ritter fouled out to Baker. A double play on Ritter's Baker. A double play on Ritter's grounder following Mayer's single in the sixth choked off a promising rally.

Another Threat. Boll's triple to start the seventh for Mobile put the Bears in line for further scoring, but Suggs made D. Williams go out on a weak ground ball to short and when Mulvey skied out to Guyon in left, Boll was easily nipped at the plate. These battlers have met be fore without a great deal of success crowning the success of either, but toth are promising damage to aight. Th's feeling was made more in cuse owing to a little episode that came just after the previous engagement between these two was finished. According to a statement, and the belief of "Pa" Stribling, Larry "sounded off" on his boy instead of touching gloves at the beginning of the tenth round of their last fight, much to the discomfort of the Macon youngster, and "Pa" decided that it was very much up to him when this was very much up to him when this tight was over to proceed to chastise Larry for this breach of boxing eti-quette, if such a thing exists. But the cooler heads and the local constabu-, er heads stepped into the threatened hostilities—but the feeling between the camps has been anything but pleasant since this time.

Training Finished.

Larry Avera rounded out his train ing yesterday afternoon at the fight parlors at Hunter and Forsyth streets and reports that he is in even better condition than in his last fight here. Larry learned several things in this last fight. The most important was that even a brilliant defensive against the ague, can survive the injuries assurance against that even a brilliant defensive against the against that even a brilliant defensive against the against that even Stribling into dreamland on the short est possible notice. He is not going to lay up a store of points and then rest on his laurels as he did in his last engagement with this Macon fighter, but says he is going to keep tearing until the fight is over.

From the training quarters of Strib-ling the same dire threats against Larry are heard, and "Pa" Stribling Larry are heard, and "Pa" Stribling has stated most emphatically that if Larry kayoes his boy that he will, without further ado, eat both palrs of boxing gloves used in this encounter. The Grand Opera stars have been invited to attend the fisticuffing, and several of them have already stated that they would be more than glad to do so. The next go, a scheduled six round affair between Young Revere and Young Boh Martin, should prove interesting. Both these boys have made good impressions in their former appearances here. Frankie Smith will try a comeback in the next hout, meeting Billie. West, a rueged customer. The semi-final should be almost a headliner, because Joe Carter is fighting in great form now, and Kid Corley, his oppo-nent. has met and whipped several mighty good boys.

deputy marshal, or a hundred of them."

Morgan looked up quickly from his speculative study of the boards in Judge Thayer's floor, to meet the elderly man's shrewd eyes with a look of complete understanding.

"I don't believe I'm the man you're looking for," Morgan said.

"You're the only man that can do it, Morgan. It looks to me like you're appointed by Providence to step in here and save this town from this reign of murder. You can supplant him, you can strip him of his badge of office when he steps from the train, and you'he the one man that can do it! I believe you'd do it without everthrowing a gun down on him."

"I know he could!" said a clear, hearty, confident voice from the door. "Come in and help me convince him. Rhetta," Judge Thayer said. "Mr. Morgan, my daughter. You have met her before."

Morgan rose in considerable confusion, feeling more like an abashed."

When Morgan went on bligged, in apology for his early intrusion.

"Sure—much obliged." Morgan returned.

The operator lingeted while Morgan ran in his eye over the few words. "Much obliged, old feller," Morgan said, warmly, giving the young man a quick look of understanding that Comboy had his head within the door. Morgan heard the operator denying Conboy the secret of the message in the hall outside his door.

Knowing that he could not sleep again after the abrupt break in his rest, Morgan rose and dressed. One of twice he referred again to the message that lay spread on his pillow: "Craddock wired Peden last night that he would arrive at No. 7 at 1:20 this afternou." It was not a telegram at all, but a friendly note of warning from the night operator, who had come over to the hotel to go to bed.

When Morgan went on the steps from the steet.

"Ernani" Draws Gay Audience To Auditorium

A tragic beauty of picturesque Spain in medieval days, and a king and his nobles in feudal dissensions, an unhappy betrothal and a hopeless love, all with picturesque setting of secret recesses in the mountains, an apartment in a majestic castle, a tomb of kings and finally a smiling terrace, which throws into greater relief the fatal denouement of a Victor Hugo romance, passionate as to the drama, and interpreted in music with the characteristic fire and turbulence of Guiseppe Verdi in his earliest period—those were the scenes behind the footlights last night when the curtains were drawn aside for the opening per-formance of the Metropolitan Opera company's twelfth season in on the other side, could there be greater contrast in mood and vision than a twentieth century au-dience in all the accourrements of modern society, gathered in festive spirit to hear the highest-priced singers in the world, and inci-dentally a work of one of the greatest masters of opera composition in the history of music, the work of the great Verdi given a per-formance, and the artists a vehicle, worthy in each case of their genius?

WAS TYPICAL

FIRST NIGHT.

A typical "first night" it was, the atmosphere quivering with restrained excitement - for excitement on such a night is only human; and restraint just as inevita-bly modified the expression of good breeding. There was no suppres sion in the applause that greeted old favorites, however. The fluent, ringing beauty of Martinelli's voice was drowned for a moment when he was first recognized in his out-law's garb in the mountains with that rousing chorus of his brigands around him urging him to the fighting they loved. Ponselle, in the long graceful robes of the Spanish beauty, her voice out-pouring in all its marvelous power, and growing each season in muturity of art to guide it, was given an ovation. It must have been plain to Danise that he had made in the heart of musical Atlanta a big dent by his singing last year, and there was no mistaking the ome given Mardones. But all will be told elsewhere.

ght here we are more concerned with beauty and chivalry in the horseshoe, and in all that vast throng of thousands which Atlanta's twelfth record for first-night brilliance and enthusi-

With the passing of the years habit, there is no slacking in this enthusiasm, and again there was the air of expectancy as the house filled up, and the smiles and the radiance of eyes that loved it allmusic and lights and pretty clothes and everything.

The debutante, although now she is a bit sophisticated, for ciety life begins for her soon after her cradle days, was really bub bling over. The matron beamed in complacent enjoyment of the performance as well as consciousness of being perfectly gowned and equipped with the very most novel lorgnette, or perhaps she had chosen that other weapon of selves up to full enjoyment of everything, or, resigned several weeks ago to the inevitable, were heroically resolved to make the most of at least four performances of opera, and-well, maybe, three supper-dances. And finally - "of course, if we dissipate four nights out of the six, possibly we might, it as well go to the dinnerdances in-between, and make it a

Dinner-Dance First Social Event of Week

Scarcely secondary in social interest to opera itself for the world of society is the first official function of opera week-the Monday night supper-dance at the Capital City club—and last night's glitter and glamor in the gold ballroom matched the brilliance of the horseshoe at the Auditorium.

All eyes were focused at the start upon the "artists' table" that gay grouping of Atlantans and opera principals in which the board of managers of the club were hosts to the directors of the Music Festival association and the prin cipals and executives of the Metro-politan Opera company.

A company of sixty was seated there. Smaller tables in the ballroom seated 100, and in the salon adjoining were parties to the number of 150. On all sides the fancy was pleased by a decoration of flowers appropriate in beauty to the spring season an inelaboration to the brilliance of the occasion.

A bar of music in great letters done in flowers was the central decoration for the artists' table. It was done in the myriad tints of the April blossoms — sweet peas and roses prevailing, with lively introduction of yellow in daisies. At opposite ends Japanese bowls as ornate as the flowers were filled with the same variety of blooms. and there was overhead decoration in hanging Japanese baskets of trailing flowers.

At the smaller tables the decorations were again of the spring blossoms in Japanese bowls. The mantels were banked with foliage plants and spring flowers. The music of an orchestra continued the festive atmosphere, and the handsome costumes of the ladies in the brilliant gathering provided no small element in the beauty of the ballroom picture.

An outstanding figure among the beautiful women present was Miss Rosa Ponselle, fresh from her tri-umph as Elvira in the opening night's opera, "Ernani."

She wore a French gown of hand-made filet lace over flesh-colored chiffon and satin and carried a filet lace fan. Her wrap was a full-length draped model in

Stars Are Given Ovation As "Ernani" Opens Season

Is there any thrill through all the year like that of opera's first night, if one really loves opera? And Atlanta's twelfth annual engagement of the greatest opera company in the world offered last night every element that would go to stimulate this. ment that would go to stimulate this

A Verdi opera of the great mas-ter's earliest period, "Ernani," had been selected, and who shall say that this selection was unwise? Old-fashioned the music is, with that out-worn styles which puts forward each singer in turn at his great vocal moments, while the orchestra beats an ments, while the orchestra beats an obvious accompaniment to endless tunefulness, in contradistinction to the modern method, even of Verdi himself, whose singing roles evolved later into an integral part of the dramatic scheme, never interrupting the continuity of this scheme unless the dramatic situation gave natural operativity for it. portunity for it.

Yet those who like their music made obvious for them were evidently in the majority, and that means, too, those with whom the singers mean everything.

Tragedy and premonition of tragedy stalks all through this old romance of Victor Hugo's, but we are so far removed now from its ideals of chivalry that we cannot get away from the realization always that it is just play-acting, and so between scenes we could sit back, cheerfully preen we could sit back, cheerfully preen ourselves in our new gowns, and with a placid contentment feast our eyes on poxes more than ever resplendant with the frequent gleams of color which at more often one was stirred by the steenergy, the vigor of the music, equally by its rich melodiousness. Lational? Surely. But who can estion that it is wholesome to rest of non-trivial control of Don Luis Gomez di Silva lacked opportunity for that admirable asset of this late. Martinelli and Danise Score. Just as Danise, substituting for Ruffo in New York, left his New the frequent gleams of color which fashion permits now to be almost strident in their vividness; and to be glad that Martinelli is again in our midst, opulent-voiced as ever, that Danise, already a prime favorite in this his second season with the Metropolitan, has so good a part, that Mardones, even though his real opportunity is yet to come in "Archibaldo ("Love of Three Kings") for his art has the poesy that a part like last night's "Duc di Silva" fails him, for the most part should be included in the east; and that Rosa Ponselle returned in a role not unlike that in which she was introduced by the Metropolitan to New York and to Atlanta, "Forza del Destino."

The Victor Hugo melodrama need not be repeated here, but suffice it to say that Verdi uses it well as a framework for his invisit and a framework for his invisit and a framework for his invisit and the factor of the clastilian king, at the last crowned emperor, the obvious beauty dience, and for those who are meticulous in their viewpoint, his was the strained in beleanto. The Victor Hugo melodrama need not be repeated here, but suffice it to say that Verdi uses it well as a frame-work for his inspiration of those early times.

Wealth of Melody.

Never did he surpass the wealth of the melody that welled up in the days of his creative youth. His development was later on that of the broadening intellect, the genius that grows with all it feeds upon. But even in Ernani, presented the first time away back in 1844, there was the creative soul that made Verdi supreme.

Many times during last night's performance, one had to think of Ernani as ti-tum-tum music, and if one were a bit sophisticated, one had to smile sometimes at that simple expedient of the early opera days in which rythmic contrast was provided by a slow movement following invariably upon the movement of rapid tempo. But more often one was stirred by the vast energy, the vigor of the music, and showed him, without question of a doubt that their welcome for him was genuine.

Ponselle Given Ovation.

Ponselle Given Ovation.

Rosa Ponselle, given an ovation for herself and her former successes, attained brilliantly to her own high standards in other roles. Breadth and beauty of voice and a deep dramatic fervor again were revealed as her supreme assets, and if the singing of the familiar aria "Ernani, Invola Mi" in the first act left something to be desired among those with whom Verdi legato is a treasure of melodious smoothness and beauty, and to tamper with it in broken phrase or sacper with it in broken phrase or sac-rifice of legato to a too fervent emo-tionalism, is a detail not to be gloss ed over lightly, yet there seemed last night to be few carping critics among Miss Ponselle's hearers, and she car-ried off the part of the much-beset and besought Spanish beauty with her usual intensity and popular effective

Papi was the conductor who opened up the 1922 season of opera for Atlanta, and without any necessity for tremendous strain on himself, directed a performance of appropriate vigor and intensity. The chorus will hardly have things their own way more surely in any of the six performances to come, than in Ernani. The vocal background provided by the chorus has been painted in with broad and generous brush, and if most broad and generous brush, and if most of the chorus members are not Italian, their very zestful singing was exceed-

Richard Brabant, who hopes that she will learn something of life. She has a thrilling flirtation with Keith Gilbert, who has always been labeled "dangerous," and is horrified to learn that, despite his position in society, he is a bootlegger. One of his men shoots a revenue officer, and Gilbert is held for murder. He escapes, taking Sally with him, but she is rescued by Neal Calhoun, who gives her some good advice. She finds herself without funds, and, not knowing where her husband is resumes the name of "Mrs. Pemberton," and obtains a position as chaperon to Claire Finch, who has more money than manners. They go to a summer resort, where Claire falls in love with Rex Mailory, the son of a wealthy antomobile manufacturer, who prefers Sally. Sally goes to dinner at a roadhouse with Glier and Mallory, and in the dressing room finds a girl picking her pockets. The girl is the sister of the employee of Keith Gilbert, who was arrested for shooting a revenue officer and has resorted to desperate means to get money for a new trial for him. Sally promises to help her, so she goes to New York to consult Caihoun, She has luncheon with an old friend, Patricia Loring, a modern flapper who has recently eloped, and who is summoned home by a strange telephone call, Patricia's husband had been hurt in an accident; seeing them together. Sally reslizes the depth of the girl's devotion, and the change that love has made in her.

CHAPTER LXII

New Danger.

When Sally reached the hotel Claire was nowhere to be seen. Sally went to their rooms, left her wraps, and then started out in search of the girl, for it was nearly midnight, and she felt uneasy about Claire.

Rex Mallory was playing bridge in the card room as she passed; a moment later he followed her down the corridor.

I wish you'd let me help you!" He spoke so impulsively, with so evident a desire to rush to her de-fense, that she could not refuse to believe in his sincerity. She paused and held out her hand to him.

"I accept—and perhaps soon I'll call on you for a kind of assistance that will surprise you," she answered. "Shall we shake hands to seal the bargain—that I'm going to accep your help when I need it?"

He gripped her hand hard in both his, then stood for a moment watching her as she went on down the beach. He could not tell her the things he had heard when he returned from town that day, the tag ends of gossin busily circulated by the of gossip busily circulated by the envious Claire, who had made capienvious Claire, who had made capital of the bit of popularity that Sally had won for her, and feeling securely established, had not hesitated to tell anyone who would listen that her chaperon had gone off to town

Sally went on more slowly as she approached the nook in the rocks where Claire and her escort were sitting, too close together for pro-priety's saks. The girl was difficult to handle, and she felt strangely help less in the face of the present situation. And who could the man be? ation. And who could the man be?
"Time to come in, Claire; it's nearly 12," she said as she came up to them. "I've been looking everywhere for you."

"I've been right here all the time the girl answered sulkily. "And I think I'll stay here; it's too nice to go

Sally hesitated a moment. Sh Sally hesitated a moment. She could not force Claire to accompany her. So she murmured, "Yes, it is beautiful out here," and sat down on the sand beside the girl. "Oh-I-" Claire looked at her i surprise, then turned to the young man who sat at her other side, and who had not bothered to rise when Sally approached. "This is Mr. Ralston," she mumbled, awkwardly. She did not mention Sally's name. Sally acknowledged the garbled introduction, and for a moment there was silence. Obviously Claire was sulky, and would give vent to her sulky, and would give vent to her anger later. And with a sinking heart Sally recognized her escort as the young man who had tried to up an acquaintance with Claire on the train.

The discussion that took place between them when they had gone to their own rooms was bitter. Claire resunted what she called Sally's interference with her attairs, and Sany tried in vain to argue with her. "You went off to town with Rex Mallory," protested Claire, with a well assumed air of virtue. "What well assumed air of virtue. "What was I to do, left here alone? I'm sure mama wouldn't think you'd acted very well; I wrote her that I was terribly lonely, left here alone."

me at breakfast. And I didn't go to town with Mr. Mallory—he just happened to go in on the same train with me. We didn't even speak on the train or see each ather in town." the train, or see each other in town. the train, or see each other in town. Sally's cheeks blazed at the thought that she was forced to make these explanations to Claire. The look of disbelief on the girl's face did not clear the situation.
"Well, of course it's nothing to me if you want to make yourself conspicuous by running around with him!" murmured Claire, elaborately indifferent. "But I don't see why you blame me for letting Ned Ral-ston entertain me." And she closed the door of her room behind her with 8 complacent smile. a complacent smile.

With an audience which filled to capacity the entire lower floor and overflowed into the balcony, the boxes being occupied by the officers of the club, members of the executive board and many distinguished visitors, and with an excellent program, the auditorium-theater of the Atlanta Woman's club was dedicated yesterday atternoon with fitting and inspiring exercises.

Mrs. W. S. Jennings, first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and prominent club.

Business.

The most important part of the business program was the announcement of the officers named by the nominating committee for the ensuing year. Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, chair man of the committee, announced the officers. Mrs. Boykin spoke briefly on this subject. Mrs. Earl Jackson presented Mrs. Boykin with a bouquet of lilies from the officers of the club in appreciation of the valuable work she has done for the club and the large part she played in making the auditorium possible.

Mrs. Jennings represents 11.000 clubs in twelve different countries, with a membership of over two million. She declared that although she had visited many clubs over the entire country she had never seen so perfect a club auditorium as the one owned by the Atlanta women. She then dedicated the auditorium with the following words:

"By the authority vested in me by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and at the invitation of the Woman's club of Atlanta, I do hereby solemnly dedicate this auditorium to the use of the clubwomen of Atlanta for literary, social, scientific and philanthropic purposes. May the power of this club grow as a leading factor for civic betterment, social welfare and uplift. May it continue to be the community center and its influence to maintain the highest ideals radiate throughout the country, state and become an active, living unit in the affairs of the nation."

Dedication Address.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the club, then introduced Congressman W. D. Upshaw, who delivered the dedicatory address. Congressman Upshaw came from Washington to address the clubwomen on this occasion, and with Mrs. Upshaw, was special grest of honor at the luncheon of the hospitality committee in the clubhouse preceding the meeting.

Congressman Upshaw used for his theme "Woman's Winsome Americanism," which he declared is as much a fascinating fact in action as it is an inspiring theme for the dedication hour. "The meaning brings a mighty challenge alike to the ranks of American chivalry and the realm of practical patriotism," he said. "Indeed, the very erection of this beautiful building, with woman as the alpha Resolutions.

The following resolution was read by Mrs. Omar F. Elder; resolutions chairman, and passed by the club:

"Whereas, the Salvation Army's splendid work in behalf of humanity is well known by all, and in view of the fact that the Army is now making its 1922 appeal for funds with which to carry on its relief and home service, be it therefore,

"Resolved. That the Atlanta Woman's club heartily indorse the appeal, and urges its members to do their share in making the campaign this year among the women, which is based upon voluntary subscriptions only, as great a success as in past years."

The club also adopted a resolution denouncing as un-American and detrimental to the best interests of Atlanta the resolution aimed at eliminating all Catholic teachers from the local public school system, which is to be presented to the board of education. building, with woman as the alpha of dynamic initiative and the omega of resourceful and victorious perse-verance, gives to Atlanta and to organverance, gives to Atlanta and to organized womanhood all over America an almost startling concrete illustration of what winsome womanhood can do when she takes counsel of her community needs and resolves and declares, "This shall be done."

He expressed his attitude toward woman suffrage in a very clear manner when he said:

ner when he said:
"When I survey this magnificent achievement of the forward-looking women of my great home city and renember, too, all the practical, patriotic service from so many angles which they have rendered, and will yet render the public, I am gladder than ever that I voted in congress for the political emancipation of women—for a governmental recognition of the fact that you women have just as much sense as the ugly men whom you bless and inspire with your daily presence, and inspire with your daily presence and just as much patriotism as the jabbering foreigners who are allowed to come over here and vote before they can even speak the English lan-

Congressman Upshaw then touched upon the subject of Americanism in its purest sense and the unique part women play in upholding the principles of Americanism. Women have lost none of their charm because of taking active interest in public life, he declared. "The starbeam has not left her eye and the roses have not left her cheeks because she has studied political economy and constitutional government in school and will hence forth wasn's regnant conscience. government in school and will henceforth wrap a regnant conscience

He then asked the audience to stand while he repeated the American's Creed. This was followed by a short talk by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, first vice president, expressing the gratitude of the club to the artists and speakers on the program and to the club women who had served so faithfully in making the auditorium possible. Congressman Upshaw closed the dedication service with a prayer.

Another distinguished visitor was Mrs. Heber Votaw, sister of President Harding, who congratulated the club women on their achievement.

Program.

Preceding the dedication services a program arranged by Mrs. Charles Chalmers, chairman of music, was preuted, which demonstrated the adaptility of the auditorium to the purloses of a little theater.

The Emory Glee club, composing thirty members, with a director and orchestrs, gave several numbers which served as a foretaste of what the club, may expect in the way of special entertainment with its new facility for colored skin something worth acquiring.

The craze is said to be of French or American origin. Baths strongly tinctured with henna dye, are taken monthly and impart a delicate tint which looks well with the evening dresses of Oriental shades and design now popular here.

Forgetting, for example, that she might be the conter of attraction at the League of Women Voters' convention, Lady Astor deserted the crowds of women who wanted to ask her opinion on every question they could think up, and went on a shopping in Baltimore when we lived in Virginia, she told her friends, "and a shopping trip to Baltimore was always the occasion for much delight and excitement. Of course such a trip had to be included in my program here."

So, after an enthusiastic afternoon in the shops, where she proved an M. P. could also be interested in styles, she went back to her task of being a "noted woman politician" once more. They were there from Virginia and Maryland and from Louisiana and Texas. Parties were present from Kentucky and Tennessee and from Florida and Alabama. Mississippi and the Carolinas vied with Arkansas and far-off Oklahoma in appreciating the south's big annual musical event.

Washington, April 24.—The senate agriculture committee concluded its investigation of the offer made by Frederick Engstrum, of Wilmington, N. C., for lease and completion of the government's projects at Muscle Shoals, Alabama. It was decided to begin tomorrow consideration of the proposal submitted by Henry Ford in-volving purchase and lease of the same oroperties.

Mr. Engstrum and former Senator Marion Butler, associated with him in the Muscle Shoals negotiations, concluded a joint explanation of the offer with an invitation to the committee to give them an opportunity for further amending the proposal in case committee members were satisfied with his present terms.

Would Stop Losses.

In concluding his statement, Mr.
Butler finally appealed for congressional action that would lead to the upmpletion of the projects and end their deterioration which, he said. was hourly causing the government tremendous losses.

Referring specifically to the Wilson dam project, Mr. Butler declared if the government decided to not go forward with its construction it.

$7,000,000 Acceptances Will Be Paid May First by Cuban Cane

New York, April 24.-The Cuba Cane Sugar corporation today announced that $7,000,000 of acceptances, maturing May 1, will be paid. The original amount of $18,000,000 was reduced last October to $13,500,000 and in January another payment of $6,500,000 was made.

Officials of the Cuba Cane corporation would not discuss industrial conditions in the Antilles, but the recent trend of the raw and refined sugar markets points to marked recupera-tion from last year's severe depression.

The acceptances to be paid May 1 were based on both old and new sugar. A new credit of $7,000,000 will be arranged, officials of the corporation said, upon the retirement of the old. This will be secured by new sugar figured at 2 cents a pound, Cuban ports, it being understood that a mar-gin of 20 per cent shall always exist between the amount of the credit and the price of the sugar.

AMERICAN EXCHANGE.

New York, April 24.—(Special.)—The following were the ruling quotations on the American Cotton and Grain Exchange Monday:

rule here of late.

Under such circumstances an early advance in the price of May delivery here failed to last and the market soon turned week for that menths are points not higher, there were rehere failed to last and the market soon turned weak for that month as well as for July and September. Selling of wheat here was led by houses with eastern connections and was apparently due somewhat to absence of export demand.

Further selling was undoubtedly induced, however, by a statement from the president of a big grain company here intimating that the company was prepared to deliver wheat on outstanding contracts instead of settling otherwise.

The company has heretefore here.

The company has heretofore been talked of being perhaps the leading short interest in the May delivery. Corn and oats weakened with wheat despite demand for corn at the seaboard and large export sales of oats.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs and grain.

About 35 points on covering.

It was estimated on the floor that notices likely to be issued agains May tomorrow might total in the neighborhood of 20.000 bales, and there were reiterated rumors that more cotton would come here before the end of next menth possibly in the neighborhood of 40,000 bales. The early offerings of May 100 bales. The early offerings of May were readily enough absorbed to create an impression among local traders that the notices would be stopped, however, and May held relatively steady in the late trading, closing at 17.99, or within 5 points of the best.

The opening was 2 points lower on May, but generally 3 to 11 points higher and the market showed considerable firmness right after the call on the steady showing of Liverpool talk of too much rain in Oklahoma and apprehensions of further delays in the new crop start as a result of low temperatures or Mississippi

Trading was quite active on the advance, but buyers seemed to hesitate as prices approached the 18c level for May contracts, and when buying tapered off the market turned a shade easier under realizing.

The close was a few points up from the lowest on renewed covering. Pri wate cables said the failure to reach an agreement on the question of Lan-cashire wages was restricting general business, but reported continued good ne-

NEW HIGH GROUND IS GAINED IN MANY STOCKS

Substantial Reactions, However, in Some Issues On Big Selling Wave

BY R. L. BARNUM, Constitution's New York Financial Correspondent.

New York, April 24.-After early strength, the stock market ran into a wave of selling from professional sources which brought about a substantial reaction in prices during the early afternoon. The selling, however, did not interfere with the movement of certain stocks which are closely held and which moved into new high ground for the year. The stocks which reacted most were those in which speculation has been heaviest during recent months, and in which a weak technical position has been created. Studebaker was one of the issues in this class. The selling, however, was not entirely confined to pro fessional account, as brokerage houses report that some selling of long stock was also in evidence. In some quarters this development created the belief that the market has set in for a substantial reaction, but according to experts, little can be deducted from just one day's movement, in view of the character of recent markets.

After the close of business tomorrow, the United States Steel cor poration will issue its statement of earnings for the first quarter of the current year. The best that Wall street expects this report to show is full earnings of fixed charges and part of the quarterly dividend. Directors of the New York Shipbuilding company have declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock. Recently

Several of the foreign government offerings continued to show strength, particularly United Kingdoms of 1937, which attained a new record; French governments and municipals and Queensland 7s, Mexicans were uneven, the 5s making a substantial rain, while the 4s weakened.

The broad list of higher rails embraced many of the underlying or mortgage issues of such systems as New Haven, which reflected the strength of the stock;; Erle, St. Faul convertibles, Northern Pacific 3s and 4s, Southern Railway 4s, Seaboard Air Line 6s, and St. Louis and San Francisco incomes.

New Haven 6s rose 2½ points, the 3½s of 1947 and 1954 gained 3 and 1, respectively, and the 4s of 1956 and 1957 gained 1½ and 2½ points.

Among industrials and utilities. Armour 4½s, Invincible Oil 8s, Midvale Steel 5s, A merican Telephone 6s and Pacific Telephone 5s were in especial demand.

Total sales, par value, were $21,741,000.

Morgan to Take Part in German

New York, April 24 .- J. Pierpont Morgan will sail for Europe probably about the middle of May to accept membership in the committee appointed by the inter-allied reparations com mission to examine the possibilities of a great German foreign loan.

Breaking a rule of long duration Morgan personally received the financial reporters of the New York newspapers and the press associations in an office of his Wall street bank to explain informally his understanding of the mission which he has decided to undertake in common with other perts in the finance of the world. Cables Acceptance.

"I have been looking into the question pretty hard during the past few days," he said, "I feel that I can be useful and I am going over. I have cabled my acceptance this afternoon. Business and personal matters are executing my attention, but I am are exacting my attention, but I am going over as soon as I cam probably about the middle of May.

"As I understand it, the committee was appointed to consider and report on the conditions under which the German government can raise a for-German government can raise a foreign loan or loans. The question I am asked is: 'On what conditions can a German loan be placed in the United States?' I think that on certain terms, with good security, a loan can be arranged, and a large amount placed in America."

Here Morgan was asked whether he believed the issue would be absorbed by American banks or would be offered for popular purchase, as were fered for popular purchase, as were the American war issues.

Depends on Security. "We are going to try to sell it."
he replied. "The amount of bonds that could be sold here would depend on the kind of security that Germany can offer and on whether we think

Political Developments Receiving Only Casual Interest of Wall Street

BY WALTER B. BROWN,

Editor New York Commercial. Written for The Atlanta Constitution.

New York, April 24.—Little more than a casual interest apparently is being taken in political affairs either here or abroad. The fact that the bonus is once more in the foreground has not made a particularly grave impression, especially in view of the intimations from the white house that unless the bill is presented in a form which carries with it its own revenue-producing provision, and that in the nature of a sales tax, the president will veto it, has given the impression that there is little chance of bonus legislation being actually carried through. It is known that a sales tax is violently opposed in the house of representatives where such legislation would have to originate under the

In passing the bonus bill the house definitely rejected the sales tax proposition, and to send the bill back to the house for the insertion of such provision would cause a deadlock which would probably last through the entire session.

Debate on the tariff has begun in the senate and will probably continue for several weeks. The bill now before the senate and the one before the house carry widely diverging views. For one thing the house insists upon the American valuation plan for reckoning duties, while the senate has sidestepped, with the result that there may be a deadlock on this subject between the two houses, even if for no other cause.

A more or less passive attitude is being maintained toward the Genoa conference. The Russian-German treaty was not taken seriously from the start. If anything, it caused amusement that these two countries should steal a march on the allies such as it was, but as it appears now it would seem to be another case where "the king of France went up the hill with 20,000 men; the king of France came down the hill and ne'er went up again," except that it was not the king of France this time or anything resembling a Frenchman.

A Grotesque Proposition.

As a trade proposition it was grotesque, neither side having any capital and without which business could not be done. As a political matter it was a burlesque and splendidly typical of the countries participating in it.

Mr. Lloyd George says that the conference is a success. At this writing details are lacking, but one is inclined to accept his word at its face value, pending further information. New York, April 24 .- J. P. "The Leightons" have one of the best offerings of its kind that has played here in some time. Their comedy is original and refreshing, the droll mannerisms of one of the team, who is in blackface, struck a popular chord with Monday night's audience and kept the house in laughter. The Leightons are composers and singers of "Blues," and as both have excellent voices, their songs were well received.

BY EDWARD N. DAVIS Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government

Tonight at 9 o'clock Masons all over the south and in many northern and eastern cities will receive from WGM a full Masonic radio program, a fea-ture of which will be a five-minute talk on Free Masonry by Sate Grand Master Joe P. Bowdoin, WGM is presenting this program especially for Gate City lodge, No. 2, F. & A. M. members of which will receive the program by a special radio receiving set and magnavox installed at the Ma-

Masonic lodges throughout the south have been notified that the entertainment is to be given and probably hundreds and thousands of Masons wil receive it.

A distinctly pleasing novelty is "The Silent Call." the current feature photodrama at the Criterion theater, where it commenced its week's engagement Monday. In this picture, a Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production, presented by H. O. Davis and distributed through Associated First National Pictures, there is a double story; the interlocking of the double plots, being accomplished through the agency of Strongheart, the world's most marvelous police dog, who is the real hero of the photoplay.

BURNS ARE FATAL TO CLARK NABRITT

Henry Nabritt, aged 6, a grandson of the old man, was the first to discover his predicament. He summoned other members of the family to his assistance, but he had been burned so badly he died soon after being carried to Grady hospital. Clark Nabritt was widely known, having lived in Atlanta for more than 40 years.

The Condenser. The condenser in its simplest form consists of two conducting surfaces separated by an insulator, known as a dielectric. When connected to a source of electric potential, the condenser possesses the valuable property of storing up energy in the form of an electrostatic field. In the closed circuit of the radio transmitter the condenser is alternately charged and discharged and the sudden release of energy across the spark gap during discharge sets up oscillations of high frequency. High voltage condensers differ essentially from low voltage condensers, in the rupture proof qualities of the dielectric when connected to a source of high potential.

Electrostatic Capacity. The phenomenon of electrostatic capacity is a very important property of radio circuits and is a measure of the ability of the circuit to store up or hold energy in electrostatic form. The united capacity is the FARAD, but this unit is so large that the MICROFARAD has been adopted as the practical unit. The microfarad is one-millionth part of a farad. When condensers, each having an equal capacity, are connected in parallel, the total capacity is the sum of the individual capacities. When connected in series, however, the total capacity is equal to the capacity of one condenser divided by the number of condensers in series. This relation applies only when each condenser densers in series.
has equal value of capacity.

The spark gap maintains the closed circuit of the radio translation. The spark gap maintains the closed circuit of the radio translation. The spark gap maintains the closed circuit of the radio translation. ferred to the open or radiating circuit, the spark gap brings the closed circuit again to a state of rest. Types of spark gaps in general use are the Plain, Non-Synchronous, Synchronous and quenched gaps. It is very essential for the spark gap to quench the oscillations of the closed circuit with sufficient rapidity to prevent reaction between this circuit and the open radiating circuit.

The Oscillation Transformer. The fundamental and important principle of the oscillation transformer is its ability, by means of magnetic induction, to transfer the energy of the oscillations in the closed circuit to the open circuit, where the energy is radiated in the form of electromagnetic waves. When the primary and secondary windings of the oscillation transformer are in close proximity, the coupling is said to be "tight." "Loose" coupling is obtained by a separation of the windings.

The aerial tuning inductance provides a means of increasing the length of the radiated electromagnetic wave above the natural wave-

The short wave condenser may be used to decrease the length of the radiated wave below the natural wave-length of the antenna system, Transmission by amateurs on a wave length not to exceed 200 meters, as specified by the United States government regulations, can usually

Woman's duty to herself as a factor in the general scheme of life is the theme of Nazimova's film version of Ibsen's "A Doll's Houes," presented Monday at the Metropolitan theater, with Nazimova herself in the star role of Nora—the great Nazimova who has really popularized Ibsen in this country.

Walter Aichel, piano The aerial or antenna serves the double purpose of radiating and receiving electromagnetic waves. Of the many types in more or less general use, the inverted "L" and "T" types hold a prominent place. When used for both transmission and reception of electric waves, the aerial usually consists of two or more horizontal wires carefully insulated. For receiving purposes only, one wire may be used to advantage and the insulating qualities need not be as carefully maintained.

The Electric Wave. The electromagnetic wave travels with the velocity of light, 186,000 miles or 300,000,000 meters per second. The length of a single wave may be obtained by dividing the velocity per second (300,000,000 meters) by the frequency of the oscillations and inversely the frequency of the oscillations is determined by dividing the velocity by the length of a single wave. An electromagnetic wave gnerated by a spark discharge has a decreasing amplitude. The rate of decrease in amplitude is limited by United States government regulations, in order to prevent interference with other radio stations.

man Russell defended the Watkins, anybody who is hunting service becharter, and Mrs. McCord Roberts spoke as champion of the Choate plan. Mr. Nutting concentrated his principal attack on the Choate plan, but he fired several heavy charges at the Watkins charter. The Choate charter, he said, is a "vicious, impossible thing, and it's almost laughable charter like that."

As a striking example of what it would do he stated that the director of finance would appoint the city purchasing agent, the city tax assessors, the tax collector and he the sors, the tax collector and be the treasurer himself. "He'd assess the taxes, collect the money and pay it to taxes, collect the money and pay it to himself, and there would be nobody to check him," said the councilman. "Can you beat that?"

Mr. Nutting declared that if the people were brought to understand what supreme position the mayor would occupy under the Chōate plan they would kill it at the polls.

"It says in so many words," he explained, "that all departments must be run under the supervision of the mayor, that the mayor makes the rules for all the departments.

He can say to the director of finance: 'You do business this way or "I'll can you. Such a charter as the Choate plan, he asserted, is violative of every principle of good government.

The mayor, under the Watkins charter, he termed a "figure-head, the ornamental end of the government, who would go around and attend pink teas, tell the ladies how well they had teas, tell the ladies how well they had handled their ballots, and welcome distinguished visitors and functionaries to Atlanta."

Defends Atlanta Plan. Clark Nabritt, aged 70, of 182 East Harris street, died at Grady hospital early Monday night from burns. He had been suffering with paralysis for several years, and his clothing caught from an open grate in an upstairs the home of his son, Rev. J.

The council, he said, he had found to be a "school boys' debating society."
He urged the need of more central ized responsibility and authority. He that in the event the Watkins Councilman Russell followed him in ized responsibility and authority. He stated that in the event the Watkins charter failed he would vote for the Choate plan.

Councilman Ashley began by calling attention to the "Hemlock" citizens committee the Choate people appointed Saturday after having already named a "Hemlock" executive com-

"If this Choate plan goes through you'll have a king," he continued.

"The king will have a cabinet of five members—a mutual admiration society. The king will have his headsman out in the hall to chop off potential heads. And they say you can't impeach him, no matter what he does. 'The only weapon they give you is the recall, and the only time it was ever used here it failed."

He said the Watkins charter would set up an oligarchy, but that form set up an oligarchy, but that form of government would be preferable to the Choate proposal.

Roberts Speaks. Speaking as a champion of the Choat forces, Mr. Roberts declarcomes disguested and discouraged. Councilman Sims brought the may-or's motives into question. "Key can't run again unless they get a new charter,' he stated, "and he couldn't be elected if he did, but he wants a job

Willet's Statement.

Mr. Willet gave out the following statement attacking Mr. Watkins: "The Watkins charter now submit ted to the people bears little resem-blance to the Watkins charter intro-duced in city council by Councilman Watkins when he took his seat in that body the first Monday in January.
"Mr. Watking since that time has written out of his charter much of the merit is originally contained, and has written into it so many demerits that it is much less desirable than when first written.

"Mr. Watkins himself wrote, in con-cannot be had in a city government where the same set of men exercise both these functions. His original charter iaid down the principle of separating the legislative and administrative branches of the government.

"To satisfy somebody's objection, he deserted that principle and wrote into his charter the exact reverse. His original charter provided that the 'chief administration' should be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by city council, thereby preserving in the mayor, as head of the administrative or executive branch of the govern-ment, complete responsibility for ef-ficient administration. His present charter provides that the 'chief of ad-ministration' shall be elected by city council without regard to the mayor. "Thus, the city council, under his il logical form of government, would be the master not only of the legislative function, but the master also of the administrative function. "Mr. Watkins himself declared, but a few months ago, that efficiency in mittee live in the eighth ward, 16 live on the south side, one in Decatur and government is utterly impossible under any such arrangement. He was quite correct. In that statement he destroyed himself as an advocate of the patchwork charter which now bears his name." GOODHART-TOMPKINS 83 PEACHTREE

Metropolitan company.

This presentation last night was made possible through the co-operathe Cable Piano company in furnishing a Victrola and the prope ecords.

An outstanding feature of the con-cert last night was the reading be-fore each selection of a condensed version of the act in the opera in which the selections occur in the presentation of "Ernani." These explanations of the acts and scenes will be given each night with the presenta tion of opera numbers. The same artists who sang from the Auditorium stage made the record presented by The Constitution's radi roadcasting service last night. The program was as follows:

1. "Come Rugiada al Cespite"
(The Sweetest Flow'r), from Act -Verdi. Sung by Giovanni 2. "Ernani, Ernani, Involami" (Ernani, Fly With Me), from Act I.-Verdi. Sung by Frieda

Hempel.

3. "Lo Vedremo, O Veglio Audace" (I Will Prove, Audacious Greybeard), from Act II.—Verdi.
Sung by Titta Ruffo.

4. "O de' Verdi' Anni Miei" (Oh, Bright and Fleeting Shadows), from Act II.—Verdi Sung.

s), from Act III.—Verdi, Sung Giuseppe de Luca, 5, "O Somme Carlo" (O Noble Carlos), from Act III.—Verdi. Sung by Emilio Corsi, Mattia Battistina, Luigi Colazza, Aristodemo Sillich and LaSeala chorus.

—that my "H"-Word contest has no connection whatsoever with any similar word contest being conducted, or having been conducted in the past, by anyone anywhere. Neither has it anything to do with any list of words being offered for sale by anybody. The largest and most nearly correct list will win, irrespective of who sends it in or where it comes from. This is my individual, personal contest, planned and managed by myself.

Remember, too, you can win a prize without

If you live out of town you can order by mail in safety. I will see that your orders are promptly filled, that good selections are made, and you can be assured that you will get your full money's worth.

REMEMBER, TOO

—I am not paying any commissions or royalties to anyone for my picture or for any plan or scheme in connection with my "H"-Word contest. Personally, I shall see that his or her list is given careful consideration. The judges, already selected, would have it no other way. I would have it no other way. Of the judges, one holds a high place in the teaching force of the Georgia School of Technology, another is a well-known college teacher, and the third is principal of one of the city's grammar schools. Their names will be announced just as soon as the contest closes.

These judges will select, on their own judgment and in their own way, without any key list, suggestion or interference from anyone, the winners, and without any previous knowledge of whether participants have qualified by purchases or not.

You will get a fair, square deal in this contest.

WHEN YOU BORROW MONEY

Would it not be safer and more satisfactory to deal with people who are firmly established and who can meet your requirements now and when your loan matures, without the delays and uncertainties which attend the negotiations of those who do not know when or where they can get your money for you? We have been engaged exclusively in the mortgage loan business under the same management for more than thirty years, representing Eastern capital and can meet your needs promptly at lowest current rates. If you should be in the market for funds now or at a later date, may we not ask that you give us an opportunity of doing business with you?
